

Firm hopes for web winners

FALKIRK IT specialist Campbell Lee is helping to develop a world-beating web-based software package.

Their partner, The Knowledge Business, has pioneered the internet-enabled application which it has called “Knowledge”. This week Campbell Lee and The Knowledge Business have signed a partnership agreement to market the product.

Any size of organisation, from the smallest company to the largest corporation, can now build, maintain and deliver its own branded e-learning portal or knowledge base. The main benefit is speed; it can be customised and up and running on an organisations’ site in just a matter of days.

“Knowledge” also saves on training time, travel and accommodation, so it is an extremely cost effective method of training staff in a number of locations.
